Students at The Quest Academy in Selsdon have achieved a 100 percent pass rate at A-Level - meaning that every single Year 13 student passed every one of their A Level subjects.

Meanwhile, 81 percent of all results achieved were A* to C at A-Level or equivalent.

In addition to overall successes, seven individual A-Level subjects saw a 100 percent A* to C achievement, 86 percent of BTEC grades awarded in the applied science extended certificate were Distinction and 100 percent of BTEC grades were distinction or above in sport diploma.

Three students achieved A*, A and A in A-Levels: Luke Farmer in maths, geography and biology, who will now go on to study geography at Royal Holloway; Sadia Raman in history, economics and philosophy and ethics, who will now go on to study politics and international relations at Queen Mary, University of London; Daniel Rodney in economics, history and sociology, who has a place to read history at the University of Bristol.

Daniel, head boy for the past year, said: "I've been at Quest since the start of Year 7. I always had the goal to get into a top university and now I've done it!"

"I've had great friends, excellent teachers; everyone here has got your back through everything. The teachers have played a really important part giving me opportunities pushing me to achieve my goals and always believing in me." Sadia said,

"All I can say is that hard work really pays off! Bless the teachers really; it was their support that helped me achieve this."

Madiah Hussain achieved double Distinction and A in philosophy and ethics and applied Science and now goes on to read finance and accounting at Queen Mary, University of London.

Madiah said, "I really wasn't expecting this! But my hard work has paid off. All those nights staying up late, revising, reading the textbook over and over. The teachers were so patient. Patience is the key. I asked a billion questions and they always listened and took time to explain to me until I understood. I want to thank all my teachers for supporting me throughout my time at Quest."

Andy Crofts, Principal at The Quest Academy said: "We're delighted by yet another year when every student has passed every one of their A level courses.

"To have achieved four out of every five grades at C or better is testament to their hard work and the commitment of their teachers and families.

"We wish them well on the next stage of their journeys with these excellent results."
